Brown Bomber to Quit Ring Until Next Year

By JACK CONWAY

New York, Aug. 31.—Champion Joe Louis' fortune hunt as title holder was definitely checked until next year after Tommy Farr's surprise showing against the Brown Bomber in the 15-round scrap here, which Louis won by a decision.

Louis' manager, Julian Black and John Dochow, today entered the dukey crown holder to take a long rest, dissipating all chances of a Miss Schmeling-Louis match this year which looked as the only real money shot in the present heavyweight championship situation.

Fearing that Louis could again fall prey for Schmeling after last night's showing against Farr, handlers of Louis refuse to gamble against the German with the champ looking so unimpressive. It was originally planned to hold the Schmeling-Louis match sometime in September.

RETURN BOLT
Despite the fact that Miss Jacobs, promoter of the bout, stood to lose money on last night's pro-fight.

CALL JAILERS IN SIMPSON BREAK QUIZ

A three-way probe of alleged irregularities in the conduct of Charles Street Jail, from which Edward P. Simpson escaped last April 25, began today.

While this probe was under way, Simpson, defiantly smiling and thumping his chest, was taken from East Cambridge Jail between lines of peering spectators and taken to the Norfolk Prison to undergo an operation to remove a bullet lodged in his body.

UNDER HEAVY GUARD
Two cars filled with Newton and Watertown officers, chasing machine and shotgun, acted as escorts on the 20-mile drive.

The investigation of the escape, ordered by the city council, today defined a form when Councilman George A. Murray, chairman of the prison committee, announced that interrogations of all officials on duty at the jail on the escape night would start on September 9.

GRAND JURY SHIFT
Murray said he had instructed Deputy Sheriff George A. Murray to press an examination of the incident and to order all others involved to do likewise.

Editorial

Let the Governor ACT

A fusing charges are being made in connection with the escape of Edward Simpson from Suffolk County's Charles Street Jail.

One public official says the escape was an "inside job." Another says it was engineered by political influence.

Simpson himself boasts he could escape from Charles Street again—and he makes that boast in another jail, awaiting trial on a charge that he killed a policeman in another county while a fugitive.

The public is deeply concerned and the case has reached a point where an investigation that will disclose the FACTS is certainly in order. The Boston Evening American, believing it speaks the public mind, demands such an inquiry.

The inquiry is one that the Governor of the Commonwealth should command. The Simpson case is not an affair of Suffolk County only. It is as much the affair of Middlesex County, in which the policeman was slain, and it is the concern of all the people of Massachusetts.

The public will not have complete faith in any Suffolk County probe of Suffolk County conditions in a majority year. The public will have faith in the findings of any inquiry ordered and directed by Governor Hurley.

A good suggestion is that made by City Council President Fitzgerald for a Hurley committee of empowered "untouchables" to inquire into the whole case.

The charges may be entirely without foundation. But those who have made them, and those who have made them, should be required to prove them if they can. Badly shaken is public confidence in high officials whose integrity should be beyond question. A JUST and THOROUGH investigation, outside the realm of political influence, must be made if confidence is to be restored.

Let the Governor act at once.

CHINA 'BEGS PARDON' FOR BOMBING

BULLETIN

Shanghai, Aug. 31 (AP)—China broke out tonight in Shanghai's French concession, where most of the city's American live.

Shanghai, Aug. 31 (INS)—War-torn Shanghai saw civilian blood spilled on its sidewalks again today when a fleet of war planes bombed 700 refugees and wounded Chinese soldiers awaiting transportation at a bus station near Wusong. First reports said the planes were Japanese. Scores of persons were reported killed.

Washington, Aug. 31 (INS)—China today formally tendered a full apology to the United States Government for the bombing attack on the Dollar Island President Hoover.

Chinese Ambassador T. Wang presented the apology to Secretary of State Cordell Hull.

Wang said his government accepted full responsibility for the most unfortunate incident and expressed "deepest regret" over its occurrence.

He said the attack on the Hoover, which was en route to Shanghai in war-torn America, was a "mistake" and that the pilots of the Chinese bombing planes believed the Hoover to be a Japanese transport disguised with American colors.

Straw Bail Probe Nets Woman, 60

A 60-year-old South End woman was held in $1000 on a perjury charge in municipal court today in connection with District Attorney William F. Foley's probe of "straw bail" allegedly posted for Francis O'Keefe of Roxbury.

Earlier today the district attorney charged the woman with perjury, claiming that she had sworn to a policeman that she had seen freedom pending a preliminary hearing by the posting of allegedly "straw" property collateral for his $1000 bail.

RELIEVED DUFF
The woman, Mrs. Mary H. Vail, entered her plea and her case was continued by Judge Daniel J. Gillen until September 5.

She is alleged to have signed an affidavit before the master in said.

DORCHESTER GIRL, YOUTH VICTIMS

Four persons were killed and nine injured today in New England auto accidents.

A Medford woman and a Dorchester girl and youth were killed and five others in the party seriously hurt when their party collided with a truck in a fog near Milford, N. H.

A Massachussetts man was killed in a crash at Walpole and four persons were hurt in a Back Bay taxi crash.

Three killed in the Milford, N. H., fog.

MRS. ANNA BERTENCOFF, 40, of Milford, Mass., was killed.

PATRICIA NELSON, 16, of Burt street, Dorchester, was killed.

WILLIAM J. MAIGNE, 16, of Melbourne street, Dorchester, was killed.

Mrs. Berencoff died in Rochester, N. H. The boy and girl were dead when they were taken to the hospital in an automobile collision. Her name was placed on the danger list.

PERSONS IN CAR
The names of the others injured were also placed on the danger list in Rochester, N. H.

Mrs. Nellie Malone, 55, mother of the dead youth, was taken to the hospital in an automobile collision. Her name was placed on the danger list.

Her son, Robert, 14, had a possible fractured skull.

Mr. Katharine Thornton, 48, of Convent street, Dorchester, suffered a fractured skull and lacerations of the face. Paul Thornton, 16, her son, received serious face and hand injuries.

'Prisoners' Lacking in China War

Shanghai, Aug. 31 (AP)—The "prisoner of war" phase was strongly missing today from the news of the Chinese war.

Although the undeclared war has been in progress about two months and has involved heavy fighting over a wide area, official figures today showed that captured prisoners have averaged less than one a day—44 Chinese prisoners taken, and only 20 Japanese.

China Warns Powers To 'Stop Japanese War'

Nanking, Aug. 31 (AP)—Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek today issued a stern warning to the powers of the world to stop the Japanese war.

Chiang said that the Japanese war was a "monopoly of trade as well as a monopoly of power."

WIFE INTERPRETS

Sitting beside the generalissimo was Mrs. Chiang, the former Mrs. Kung, who was interpreted by her own interpreter.

The interpreter said that Mrs. Chiang said, "I am sure that Japan will win."

Americans in Peril As U.S. Bans Shanghai

Shanghai, Aug. 31 (AP)—United States authorities closed the port of Shanghai today to all American ships except naval vessels, while the second air attack on the city in two days increased the peril to civilian life in China.

A plane of unknown identity bombed the Italian-operated steamship Lung Shan, a 227-ton liner, which was carrying 1,000 passengers and crew.

British, French to Fire on Japanese

Washington, Aug. 31 (AP)—An attack by Japanese troops on British and French police at Tientsin today brought ultimatums from the British and French that if this occurs again, Japanese troops will be shot upon without warning.

The British and French ultimatums were declared effective at midnight last night, Chinese time, and the Japanese government was told that it would move no more troops in the foreign concessions, effective at noon, 12 hours after the ultimatum deadline.

Brin Stirs Educators With Attack on Press

WOMEN JOIN IN DISCUSSION

By WILLIAM MICHELFELDER

Williamstown, Aug. 31.—Alexander Brin, intellectual from the Boston Jewish Advocate, stood before seven hundred noted clergymen, publishers and educators at the second conference of the Institute of Human Relations on the Williams College campus here and announced he had profited by four-fifths of the world's press was "muzzled."

There was nothing new about the idea. But what attracted the swelling audience, many of them professors in smart silk shirts with crumpled wing collars, was that Brin asserted that the nation had decided that the international press did nothing but cater to a low and degraded public opinion.

Dr. Brin, who represents New England with Rev. Michael J. Ahran, S. J., of Weston College, and the Rev. L. C. Nichols, of the Universalist church, Melrose, stood before the freed conference in Griffin hall and said:

Four-fifths of the world's press is muzzled, with countless millions of people cut off from the truth as to what is happening in their respective countries.

"Foreign correspondents are expelled because they dare tell the truth."

"Do you know what that means to us? It means the free press of America has a great responsibility. We must not cater to a supposed low and degraded public opinion, but rather at this time seek a noble and dignified public opinion not yet safe for American ideals."

Meanwhile the struggle over the negative effect of the American motion picture on public opinion went into its second day.

When Hollywood moved to the American mind was still the bone of controversy.

DIFFERENT PRODUCERS

Martin Quigley, noted publisher, went to bat for the producer. He is the free defender of the industry through the institute, speaking through educators, publishers and critics, since yesterday.

"The American motion picture industry has a fine system of industry regulation. It is thorough and geared to higher moral standards than any other regulatory methods adopted by popular mediums of expression."

"In its simplest terms it is a common-sense recognition of the nature of man and his responsibilities to his neighbor and to society."

"The subject of a movie comprises the circumstances of life and living. It represents human beings in action and reaction on each other."

"Above all, Hollywood has evolved under expert and experienced supervision. It attempts to show people confronted with problems of conduct their behavior and the way they meet and solve these problems."

Here according to Quigley is the end of the quarrel.

He told his audience that the influence of the motion picture depended on the degree of individual responsibility.

100 IN DISCUSSION

Among those participating in the discussion were Carl Milliken, secretary of the National Association of American Motion Picture Producers; Dr. Alice V. Kibler, director of the National Association of American Motion Picture Producers; and others.

After the Hollywood discussion were round table discussions on the religious, moral, educational in schools, and effect of propaganda on the college campus.

Thomas Yonke, representing the League for Industrial Democracy, is the lone "pink" to be admitted to the institute. He addresses the conference tonight on "Freedom of the Press."

MISS HELEN MCCARTHY, Miss Helen McCarthy of Rockville, Conn., and Miss Helen McDonough of New Britain, Conn., interested visitors at Human Relations Institute conference.

August, With Heat Record, Passing Out Still Hot

The hottest August in the history of the local weather bureau appeared this and today in another sweltering display of heat and humidity.

In achieving a new record, August, 1937, registered a mean temperature of 74.4 as against a mean of 71.4 in 1936.

The warmest August 31 on record came in 1934, when the mercury reached 79. In 1932, it was a low of 68.

During the month the mercury on one occasion, on 20th, was 67. In the 1936 record, the temperature was 66 on the 24th.

Other high marks established were 85 on the 24th, 84 on the 17th, 83 on the 30th, 80 on the 10th. The lowest recording was 61 on the 26th.

Measurable rain was reported on 11 days, the total rainfall being 4.97 inches. This figure is slightly above normal.

FACE COURT AS 'JOY RIDERS' Probe of Perjury Ordered by Judge in Auto Crash

Worcester, Aug. 31 (AP)—District Attorney Owen A. Hobson today said an investigation into a case which Judge Ernest E. Hubson of Worcester court charged "perjury."

Judge Hubson asked the district attorney to order the probe after finding Robert Colton, 31, of Deane street, this city, guilty of a charge of leaving the scene of an accident.

Colton, who pleaded not guilty, was sentenced to five months in the House of Correction.

"To my nine years of experience on the superior court bench," Judge Hubson declared, "I have never seen such a case which reeked with such perjury as the case before me."

"In this case ten decent men and their wives were injured and the defendant, instead of going out of his way to give assistance, fled."

"Perjury is one thing which can overthrow justice and jeopardize the freedom of the people."

It was alleged to have been the driver of the machine which crashed into another car containing four persons, all of Auburn, July 31 in field street, Worcester.

The defendant testified that he wasn't the driver, but that the machine was stolen from him.

The more serious feature of the case was Thomas Kane, 27, of Leade street, North Boston, who landed in a pile of bricks. He suffered head injuries.

Edward P. McLaughlin, 26, of Lexington street, Brighton, was sentenced for a fractured left wrist and skull. Both were removed to City Hospital.

OUSTED Teacher Hits STRIKE

WARNS HER EX-PUPILS

Putting aside her movie aspirations for the moment, blonde Isabel Hallin, ex-Saugus teacher, today appealed to Saugus pupils to abandon their threatened school strike in protest of the teacher's dismissal from the high school faculty.

The girl who said she didn't serve cocktails to members of her dramatics and English classes, in a letter addressed to C. Fred Hallin, her father, called on the students to reconsider their plans.

THANKS STUDENTS

Writing from New York, where she is being hit by a wave of daily motion picture tests, Miss Hallin thanked the students for their "grand support," but added: Return to school as usual and you will be happier.

The ex-teacher warned the students:

"I feel that any strike action would be more destructive than helpful. A strike would affect most harmfully those persons who stand to me on a friendly basis. She also declared that her own resignation could not be secured for any such reason."

MOVEMENT SPREADS

Meanwhile, unaware of their former teacher's letter, the strike movement continued to spread. With school scheduled to open September 1, it is hoped that the students will take their own.

The Saugus school board is to meet tomorrow night to consider a suggestion to Miss Hallin.

Essay Winners Back From Paris

Still excited over their experience, Jean Coleman, pretty Simmons College junior, and John R. Moran, 28-year-old Marlboro, were back home today after their trip to Paris as guests of the Boston Evening American, the Sunday Advertiser and Mogo-Goldwyn-Mayer Pictures.

It was a day of real for the pretty student at her home, 12 St. John street, Jamaica Plain, and for Moran at 84 Warren avenue, Marlboro, after an absence of nearly a month, with 15 delightful days in Paris.

"It was a very wonderful time, one that I'll always remember," declared Moran. "It was the most glorious time of my life."

The winners of the essay contest as "Which Paris Means to Me" reached New York at 4 p. m. yesterday and immediately proceeded to Boston.

"The Place de la Concorde in the moonlight is something that can never be forgotten by anyone who has seen it," Miss Coleman remarked.

"Writers have told of the beauty of the Taj Mahal, but I'll take the Place de la Concorde any time."

SHOPS IMPRESSIVE

"The Eiffel tower and the shops were impressive, too. Perhaps I should now write an essay on 'Why I Want to live in Paris Again.'"

Moran, assuming the masculine viewpoint, said:

"The Cathedral of Notre Dame is the greatest mental picture I brought back from Paris. Its grandeur, historically and architecturally, struck me deeply."

"Everyone was very friendly and hospitable. The representatives of the Boston American and Sunday Advertiser and Mogo-Goldwyn-Mayer pictures proved themselves perfect hosts."

"Any romance on the trip?" asked an inquisitive reporter on learning that Moran was official champion, not only for Miss Coleman, but also for Betty Ridgwell of Norfolk, Va., and Gillette Kyles of Richmond, Va., who won screen tests in a similar contest.

JUST BIG BROTHER

"Not one single minute for romance," Miss Coleman replied. "He was just a big brother to the three of us from start to finish."

Asked whether he went shopping with the girls, Moran said:

"I certainly did not. It was when they were sleeping or shopping in the mornings that I had a chance to enjoy the sight of the city by myself."

Mimic Battle On for Boston

Along a line from Quincy Bay to where the Taunton River joins the ocean, a sizeable battle is being fought, with more than 200,000 "armies" men. All the actual men taking part in the present war games are 125 high-ranking officers from the United States army, located at Fort Devens. Back here the Boston Americans will carry latest developments to show how this mythical war is going.

There was street fighting in Brockton this morning.

From the upper story windows of houses in Lowell's center in Weymouth and North Abington, black troops poured machine gun fire on the legions of the home blue-clad men.

In the darkness, blue tried to turn the invading bodies back to the shore.

Full River, Taunton, New Bedford, were in the hands of the enemy. Providence, Newport, Fall River, Milton, Boston still were safe, guarded by the blue army.

In the eastern half of Massachusetts, sets are now concentrated 10,000 motor vehicles for the blue army alone. 7000 houses. The exact number of the black forces are unknown.

200,000 FIGHTERS

More than 200 trains are joining in from New York, New Jersey and Connecticut.

The black army, the foreign invading forces, have four divisions in the field and undetermined numbers have been landed since the night. This puts their main power at between 100,000 and 200,000 men.

Originally the black forces landed at Mattapoisett and Dymouth, intent on capturing the harbor of Boston, where they had not been able to land directly because of the heavy defense guns.

CANAL WRECKED

An air raid directed at Boston was successfully turned back by the blue army, which has been at a distinct disadvantage in the air, due to the fact that the entire naval fleet of airplanes is on the Pacific coast, with the navy.

The navy is virtually useless for weeks to come, since the Panama Canal has been wrecked.

125 OFFICERS

How is this accomplished by a force that consists of no men, no guns, no airplanes, no other weapons of war, but simply 125 "black" officers and 125 "white" men?

In their headquarters at Fort Devens are 125 umpires who determine the original conditions of the warfare—for example, that the Panama canal should be destroyed—and to them, the commanders of each side give their orders.

Then the umpires tell these moves to men who represent the front line troops of the opposing forces—those men who would actually find it out during war. Back through officers, regiment heads, to commanders goes the news, and a counter move is planned.

Let's be frank! You've been fur shopping. You've been comparing plenty of furs. But can you tell the quality of the dyes and dressing? Can you tell if the skins are prime and will retain their natural suppleness? Can you judge the inside of a fur coat, like the sewing, staying and durability of the leather? As fur experts, we check and re-check, but we even go further! We insist on laboratory testing. Our Portrait fur coats, are tested and approved by the United States Testing Co., N. Y.—the only ones in New England so certified! This is DECISION WEEK—the week when you MUST make a decision, but the RIGHT one. Postpone your bridge game—neglect a little housework if necessary, but DON'T FAIL to come to Scott Furriers this week—DECISION WEEK. You'll thank your lucky stars you did!

FEATURES!

199,687 New England women enjoy the benefit of our Famous Scott Unique Payment Club! It solves those fur coat problems! REMEMBER—No extra or carrying charges. Our new Fur Salon has shown and common sense—free individual shops with furs (from size 8 to 58) to fit every personality. REMEMBER, too, to bring your old fur coat. Scott Furriers gives you a liberal allowance on it towards the first payment on a new Portrait Fur coat!

PRICE?

Scott Furriers PRICE story is a repeat one. But it's the most important principle of our entire organization. That's why we tell you YEAR AFTER YEAR that PRICE IS IMPORTANT, but what is PRICE without QUALITY? NOTHING at all! REMEMBER, more New England women buy their furs from Scott Furriers than from any other store. REMEMBER our purchasing power is staggering, our savings equally impressive! For no matter which Portrait Fur embraces you in luxury—be it Scott lapin at $47 or a $2400 Scott mink, you save a pretty penny and leave Scott Furriers with gratitude in your hearts!

Good Housekeeping Brings You A FREE COLLEGE COURSE IN Courtship and Marriage

YOUNG people are waking up! They refuse to go blindly into marriage. They want light on picking a sweetheart and choosing a husband.

Courses that deal with courtship and marriage are being given in 225 colleges and universities, but never before has such a course appeared in a magazine.

Now Good Housekeeping gives one—in text as interesting as fiction, and in facts, modern, intimate and complete.

Dr. Ernest R. Groves, who opens the series in September Good Housekeeping, started the first course of this kind at the University of North Carolina 14 years ago. What he taught a thousand students is here given to all young people.

Should you fall in love with the first one who comes along? Should you judge a prospective mate by his party manners or dress?

What are the danger signals in courtship that point to unhappiness in marriage? What is the value of books on sex technique?

Come to Love College. Learn the right way to pick a sweetheart and choose a husband. Get fore-knowledge of marriage relations. The entrance fee to Good Housekeeping's plain-talking course in Courtship and Marriage is just the quarter you pay your newsdealer for a copy of Good Housekeeping.

Perhaps You are this Woman

"Mark, I want to be married, and I want to marry you!"

Susan Gaylord had wanted to be an artist, but she was a very human girl as she held up her lips for her lover's kiss.

They were married. Babies came, but the flame of her ambition drove her on and on—even though it meant estrangement from husband, family, friends.

In Susan Gaylord, Pearl Buck creates a woman subject to woman's normal desire for a husband and children, yet with an urge to take a solitary path to the stars.

Millions of women who must choose between the demands life and the urge for self-expression beyond home bounds will find lots to think about in this electrifying novel of modern life by the gifted author of "The Good Earth." Begin it in September Good Housekeeping, now on sale.

Tennis Doubles Finals Attracts Society's Fashionables

By BETTY ALDEN

BOSTONIANS EVIDENTLY don't work on Mondays. At least it seemed as if brokerage houses and stock exchange firms must have been closed yesterday, when the finals were played in the National Doubles championship matches.

The square bowl of bleacher seats which surrounds the Longwood Cricket Club's championship court was packed to the gunwales. . . much to the gratification of the house committee which had had its gulim . . . both individually and collectively . . . as to what sort of a gallery a Monday afternoon final would draw . . .

It is interesting to note how things often work out in spite of the "best guesses" of the experts . . . This year members of the house committee were overjoyed when it was found that it was legally possible for them to hold the doubles final on a Sunday . . . and still charge admission . . .

Then when the tournament started a couple of rainy days set in, which put the tournament back of schedule and sent plummeting the officials' hopes of a big Sunday afternoon attendance . . .

But the rivalry between the German Davis Cup doubles team, and Dudge and Mako, who represented America in the cup matches, was of such interest to tennis lovers that the Monday crowd outdid Sunday's . . . and the stands were so packed that spectators sat in the aisles and every available vantage point . . .

Tennis is getting to be an ideal sport from the spectators' standpoint . . . because those in the gallery do not have to simply spectate . . . but can do one thing or another which . . . though it has no actual influence upon the tournament . . . gives them the feeling that they are participating . . .

Almost everyone carried some sort of accessory in their hands as they climbed up in the stands to find their row and seat number . . . In many cases the accessory was nothing more than a soft cushion or a parasol . . . but there were many number of field glasses, sun glasses and a small arsenal of candid and movie cameras to shoot at all and sundry like Oriental aviators . . .

Many Recent Brides in Gallery

JEAN ADAMS, who was armed with an autograph book earlier in the tournament, showed up for the finals with an expensive looking candid camera to record the scenes pictorially . . . and to get a good closeup of the handsome Baron Von Cramm who had favored her with an autograph a few days earlier . . .

If Betty Everts is as good a photographer as she looks she will have an album full of scenes from yesterday's final matches, which made an unfortunate impression on all the fans . . . besides tennis history in the beating of the former champions, Dudge and Mako, by their German rivals . . .

It seemed like an old home week for recent brides . . . Rose Whitman Frothingham (Mrs. Channing Frothingham, Jr.), a bride of just a month, wore an attractive jacket suit which made those who know her well jokingly ask if it was her going away dress . . . for the little jacket was of a confetti print which looked exactly as if handful of the little colored paper scraps had been tossed at her and stuck to the silk . . .

Mrs. Alvan T. Fuller in a Bright Print

MRS. ROBERT TRENT PAINE carried a half-pint case parasol edged with a little white ruffle to protect her from Old Sol . . . as she and Mr. Paine chatted with Elio Sears in the intermission . . . Mrs. George Creighton had an ice cream cone with Mrs. Wallie Pierce while waiting for the big match of the day to begin . . . and Mrs. Alvan T. Fuller looked as chic as ever in a bright print with lots of blue, black and white in it . . . the same colors were repeated in her modish turban . . .

Mrs. Andrew Marshall, Jr. and her sister, Marian McKean, occupied her box with Tom Wigglesworth . . . Mrs. Marshall resembled a fashion plate in beige linen with horizontal bands of green, cherry and violet . . . and the Turkish turban of the fabric of her dress . . . Madeline Jackson, a bride-to-be, attended with her future sister-in-law, Mary Emery . . .

A foursome of prominent home lovers which gathered at the refreshment booth to talk over the matches, included Mr. and Mrs. Robert Almy and Mr. and Mrs. George Gardner Pike . . . Mrs. John Lavalle, who attended with her famous portrait painter husband, dodged the jacket of her white linen suit to reveal a brilliant blue blouse . . .

Now that the summer theater season at Coliseum has drawn to a close, Jane Bancroft is free to take in more social events . . . Yesterday she was eligible to be voted best dressed lady in her grey and white dotted chiffon dress with a wide brimmed hat made of braided bands of duoberry straw . . . Mrs. Frederick C. Church, Jr. was another smartly dressed young spectator, in a black and white Tahitian print with a huge black hat . . . Mr. Church was with her . . .

Mr. and Mrs. Lester de Courcy Hinds found a number of friends to chat with while the players were resting and Mr. and Mrs. Huntington Hardwick were also present . . . Still others we noted were Emily Davis, Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Dwinell, Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Thorndike, Betty Blake and Fifth Seabury of Weston, Mr. and Mrs. Paschal Swift, Mrs. Wadsworth Busk, Jennie Hoffman, Betty Albers, Betty Palmer, Mrs. Harvey Bundy, Mrs. Charles Hovey and hundreds of other socially prominent folks whom we have mentioned before as regular attendants at the championship matches . . .

CANDID CAMERA FAN AT TENNIS FINALS

JOHN M. FRENCH

CANDID CAMERA shooting is all right for the photographer, but it is not quite so much fun for the victim. John M. French was a little bit dubious about how his picture would come out when Betty Everts turned her attention from the tennis stars at the National Doubles finals at Longwood to do a little random snapping among her friends. Miss Everts is the post debutante daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Everts of Chestnut Hill.

Ceremony In Salem

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Franklin Littlefield announced the marriage of their daughter, Virginia Littlefield, to John Frederick Faily of Weston and New York City, son of Mrs. Henry C. Faily and E. J. Faily, Jr. The wedding ceremony was held at the Tabernacle Church in Salem, at 10 o'clock Saturday afternoon, August 28.

Miss Ruth Faily, sister of the bridegroom, was the maid of honor and the bridesmaids were Mary Louise Littlefield, of Larchmont, N. Y., and John Littlefield of Tuckahoe, N. Y., niece of the bride. The bride wore a gown of white tulle and the bridesmaids wore white. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Dr. J. H. Williams, pastor of the Tabernacle Church in Salem. The reception was held at the home of the bride, 100 West 10th Street, New York City.

Reports Gain In Chronic Ailments

Modern man is blessed with the advantages and protection of the age in which he lives. But too often this security is misleading and dangerous. It may prompt indifference and neglect of diseases which require medical care.

It is true that the average man of today, as compared to that of former years, has been greatly lengthened. The life expectancy at birth has increased from approximately 47 years for boys and approximately 45 years for girls.

These statistics are indeed encouraging, but we must not overlook the fact that there has recently been a marked increase in the chronic disorders. But how can we combat this danger? As I have frequently pointed out it is imperative that every individual consult with the doctor at periodic intervals. This is especially advised for persons beyond 40 years of age. Bear in mind that each decade brings increasing hazards to health and life.

In many of the chronic disorders which are presented, therefore, it is only logical to assume that we can easily move with which, confidence as. But it can only be done by thorough co-operation between the physician and the patient.

Uncle Sam Restores Wives To Their Good Jobs in The Civil Service

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Neither spinsterhood nor poverty is a bit romantic. That is why I find so many young people full of glee now that all married women workers have a sound legal status once more.

You remember Congress repealed a week or so ago a certain section of the Economy Act which forbade both a man and wife to remain on the Federal Civil Service rolls.

It isn't only that wives who lost their jobs through the passage of this act are now free to regain them if they can't find a better one. They are a hard-pressed household, it is a very opening of the gates of Paradise to youth.

YOUR hair line slipping? You may spend hours at the gym, on the golf course to keep fit. But what about the hair line? If you are neglecting your hair it will surely betray you.

For thirty years in every cosmopolitan center of the world, a firm of women has been specializing in the hair. Let me give you some of their principles: Continual use of water causes baldness.

Hair should be washed only once a month. It can be kept glossy, clean, between shampoo with the proper cream. The hair should have long, thin, wavy lines.

Say good-bye to the stubby military brush, even if they were given you with love and kisses. A dry scalp may also be the cause of your hair loss.

Anyways, I'm glad that from better hair than I had, and that their love will have a chance to live.

But don't imagine all you women are so excellent. Congress and Senators really don't understand this problem. They are not even sure of the hair line. They are not even sure of the hair line.

There's Always Tomorrow

CHAPTER 32

"And so you are really going to Niklas' country place for the week-end?" reiterated Guy.

"I have no alternative," said Toni. She added hoping: "Can you suggest one?"

Oh, that it would ask her to give up her rehearsals and take her away from it all!

A dream! He was looking at her with cold disapproval. There was no love-light in his handsome dark eyes.

And yet he raved enough for her to be concerned how and where she spent her weekends. That was funny.

"As an alternative, why not go back to your people, my dear girl?"

Then he doubted the whole fabrication of Madame la Marquise. "I have no where to go to nor am I as fortunate as you. I have to work for my money."

"You are sure that you do?"

He was thinking of the shabby, trembling little creature who had thrust a sheet of bills under Toni's chair at the night club. Payment for something?

Obviously yes. She had been supplied.

Toni naturally jumped to the conclusion that he was referring to an affair with Niklas.

"How dare you say that?"

"I dare say a very good deal. One of those days I'll have a mind to find out, Miss Annette!" he deliberated, dropping the bill—Toni would be surprised.

WAS HE JEALOUS?

Under her resentment was the painful longing for that declaration. Did he by any chance mean that he loved her? That he was jealous?

At cross purposes they wandered.

"Six of us are going. We'll be rehearsing most of Sunday for the Pastoral Fete that's to take place on New Year's Eve. You understand?"

"Not in the least. You could rehearse in the Niklas can command your time and services out of business hours."

"Niklas," she ventured, was a very thoughtful person. He says that affair out right—the attack of these men—the lamp crashing at the club and barely missing me—he says I need complete change.

"I think it's very kind of him. I've been so upset and everything."

"I'm afraid you're going to be a great deal more upset before you're finished with Niklas, my dear girl."

She stared at him. Why was he so antagonistic?

"I'm free, white, and if I can do as I choose."

"Then don't blame me for what ever happens. I've warned you. You're playing with fire. Again she misunderstood. He was jealous of Niklas!

TO THE COUNTRY.

At noon, next day, she and Lolo Marquina, with Lolo's dancing partner and three other acquaintances, were driven by Niklas chauffeur in his big car to his country place in Weymouth.

It was a sparkling, frosty Saturday, very close to Christmas. The house was set far back from the road, surrounded by a network of shrubbery.

With one of the young male dancers who was to participate in the coming fete, Toni took a long afternoon ramble. She went to bed early. She was heavily tired.

On the point of dozing off—she had a night-light burning—she saw the door-catch slowly turn. She called out: "Who's there?"

Silence. The door opened. She had taken that precaution. The knob moved slowly. No noise. Had it been a ghost? Her own overwrought imagination?

Toni fell sound asleep.

Niklas awaited them at breakfast in affable mood. All through that Sunday afternoon and well into the evening, they rehearsed the new show for the Chateau de la Marquise.

It was late when Toni got to bed. But she was asleep.

Thinking of last night's experience—the door knob turning—her nerves were so tense that she decided to investigate. She crawled down the passage, which suddenly widened as she reached the steps.

Down! Down!

A third door in the garden? He thought. How strange! Came a strong draught of air. Her candle blew out. She stopped in her tracks.

For a queer sound was behind her—as of someone breathing in the darkness—padding feet.

"Who's there?"

Came a horrible chuckling laugh. It had a familiar ring.

LIFE OR DEATH?

"Toni! You're going to get what's coming to you! Hiss, ha, ha!" A blinding light flashed into her face. Her eyes stared at her. There was the gleam of a revolver, followed by a thunderous report.

Up, freakish though your dreams may seem, each gymnast knows some problem or desire that you've tried to ignore, to hide in your unconscious mind. If you could read dreams—as psychologists urge every one to do—you would see how necessary it is to face the truth, to do something about your secret troubles.

To dream you're a child again hints that you secretly long for the days when you were petted and had no responsibilities. Your dream warns you not to encourage your imagination but to meet adult problems squarely. You'll be much happier.

LARGE or small, fall collars make their business to lead up to something in a very flattering manner. And that something is your face! We've found this out about fur-trimmed winter coats.

Tiny to the point of non-existence, artless as a baby's bib though some of the collars may be, still their main purpose in life is to provide a pretty frame for your face.

And of course the luxurious and softening effect of masses of silky fur is only too well known. Subtleties are many. For casual coats they may be fluffy, but not over-fall. The straight neckline is high fashion. Fitted lines that show off your waist are around with the width of skirt somewhat less than last year's ballerinas.

Surprisingly, there's color. Not for formal town wear, to be sure, when black is undisputed ruler. But for the casual or sports coats. Deep reseda greens, smoky plums, reddish browns. Natural tones are extremely important.

And newest accessories in the high style division to highlight coats are in that marvelous color called vaguely, Red Mud, Chow, Tanbark, Georgia Clay, depending on where you buy it!

To dream you're a child again hints that you secretly long for the days when you were petted and had no responsibilities. Your dream warns you not to encourage your imagination but to meet adult problems squarely. You'll be much happier.

MADGE WONDERS WHAT AILS FATHER

CHAPTER 34

"It's a code within a code, isn't it?" she asked. "It couldn't be anything else. Read it aloud, won't you?"

I read the translated words aloud.

"All my love to you, Richard, Junior and Faith, and do not forget the strawberry jam and the corn on the cob."

Then I put the page down and smiled over at her.

"Only I'm not sure," I said. "You've guessed it. This one is simply a key sentence known only to my father and me—or so he has told me—which indicates, in its different phrasings, the code—ix in all—which I am in use in deciphering the rest of the message."

"Six," she echoed. "My word! I'll say your dad doesn't care how many codes he spends, does he?"

"He's fairly lavish with them," I answered.

I put the six code books we needed on the table, gave her three with the sections of the key sentences corresponding, took the other three myself, and we went feverishly to work.

Only, I knew that each flower meant a certain book, one of several apparently miscellaneous ones in my bookcase, and that the numbers cunningly charted in terms of pages, lines and position of words in a line could only be found among the pages of those books.

AFRAID OF WORDS

"I feel like a forest," I'll say and when we had reached the book stage, and were burrowing through the pages.

"You mean we will know when we come to the end," she muttered rebelliously.

"You're completely tickered out," she said. "And to wonder! You've had to draw the heavy end of the load. Now I'm not very bright, but I can put these words together according to directions. Suppose you lean back and close your eyes, and let me fix up the last of this police puzzle."

"Your Figure, Madame!"

CORRECT POSTURE FOR SLIM LINES

By IDA JEAN KAIN

To slim down without going on a diet or taking reducing exercises, perk up your posture. You may be able to lose from two to four inches in measurements without the slightest weight reduction.

This slimming method is especially advocated by the corrective gymnastics department of the New York Y. W. C. A., on the basis of surprising measurement changes achieved by concentrating on posture.

There are a number of instances in which a two-to-four-inch measurement loss has been recorded as the result of improved posture. The department believes that fully 50 per cent of the women interested in slimming down can do so by improving their posture.

Attention is directed first of all to the spine, which is the backbone of your figure. The spine should be stretched straight, but free from tension.

Your position while standing should be such that an imaginary straight line would run from the ears, through the shoulders, the knee joints and the ankle joints.

To strengthen the muscles of the back and shoulders, try this Y exercise:

Stand against a table that is about hip height. Let the upper part of your body fall forward so that you lean on the table and the other stands up. Have the arms at the sides, with elbows turned in. Holding the chin in, and keeping the back straight, raise the head in a straight line off the table. The series should be on the muscles across the shoulder blades. Repeat, and repeat the exercise several times.

One of the simplest and easiest posture exercises is to lie on the four, face down, and contract the gluteal muscles of the buttocks.

Do you poke your head forward? Then you should practice this exercise of "making a double chin" to correct a double chin. Pull the chin back, but forcibly, contracting the muscles of the neck and throat. Relax gradually and repeat. This exercise corrects the forward stretching of the neck muscles.

To cross that limp on the nape of the neck as well as to correct a forward-thrust chin, this exercise is advised. Sit against the doorframe and try to flatten your back so that both the small of the back and the nape of the neck touch the wood.

Swimming is highly recommended as a posture corrective. This exercise allows to all the muscles their proper share of activity and tones the body from any tension.

Posture correction may be all you need to slim down.

Stretching exercises help you to achieve a lovely posture. Send for the leaflet, "Stretching Exercises to Stretch the Fat from Waistline, Ribs and Thighs." Enclose a stamped return envelope, or Miss Kain in care of this paper.

Singleton Leads

By JOSEPHINE CLIBERTSON

The following hand occurred in a recent duplicate in which no fewer than five nationally known experts played in the West position.

Their unanimity in selecting a singleton as the opening lead was all the more remarkable in that their partners had been the bidding with another suit.

East dealer. North-South vulnerable. Match point duplicate.

2 4 3 3
3 4 2 2
4 3 1 1
5 2 0 0

Several of the South players who had overcalled with one spade and been promptly doubled went into long "apologies" about using the idea of running to two clubs. In every case, however, the decision was to be made enough alone. After all, the West players, despite the fact that they had a duplicate in a suit that partner had bid, chose the singleton club running. The Queen was in the "blond" of the singleton.

East won, and on the second theory that partner would not have opened the club without a good reason, led the suit back. West ruffed and led the top diamond. The Queen won and another diamond produced another ruff. Now West led down the heart King and, when it beat, followed this up with the heart Jack.

West deliberately avoided playing the heart Queen because he wanted partner, who apparently was sure to overtake. West counted correctly that declared, two diamonds could hardly hold more than two hearts. That the best defense at this point demanded that East overtake the heart and instead of playing a third round, lead a diamond.

Can't Disown Dreams

HARD to believe—but every dream you have is an expression of your everyday life. You make them up!

Odd, freakish though your dreams may seem, each gymnast knows some problem or desire that you've tried to ignore, to hide in your unconscious mind. If you could read dreams—as psychologists urge every one to do—you would see how necessary it is to face the truth, to do something about your secret troubles.

To dream you're a child again hints that you secretly long for the days when you were petted and had no responsibilities. Your dream warns you not to encourage your imagination but to meet adult problems squarely. You'll be much happier.

Send the for our booklet, INTERPRETING YOUR DREAMS, to Boston Evening American, Home Institute, 100 West 11th Street, New York, N. Y. Write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS, and the NAME of booklet.

Roy Fights Quiz Claim That Jenks Retains Seat

Newton, N. H., Aug. 31 (AP)—Council for Alphonse Roy, Manchester Democrat who seeks to replace Arthur R. Jenks (R-Manchester) as U. S. representative from the First New Hampshire District, took sharp issue today with a congressional investigator who said there remains in question of Jenks' right to his seat.

The investigator, Charles A. Wolcott (R-N. H.), said the committee had been asked to investigate the case of Jenks after he had been elected to the seat in 1935.

Building Activity At Slower Rate

Residential contracts in July were very little in excess of the volume in the same month last year, in contrast to the sharp gains over a year ago in the previous months of 1937, according to the Alexander Hamilton Institute. Non-residential contracts in July, however, were considerably larger than a year ago, and total building consequently continued to make a favorable comparison with last year's volume.

At the same time, the amount of work in July was smaller than in previous months. Total building contracts for the first seven months showed an increase of 25.6 per cent.

Shoe Stocks In Further Rise

By HUGH E. BRADSHAW

In tanning circles there is a fear that the present "hardness" of leather buyers has jeopardized the hide market. The shops are not buying as they might be expected to at this season of the year. The trade, it is said, is not completely satisfied with the assurances that have been given them that consumer buying will hold up despite price increases that are more than warranted by the natural or unnatural price inflation.

The First National Bank of Boston today in a New England letter says that the shoe trade seems reconciled to the idea consumer price increases may point an earlier record in this fall. However, this reliable reporter of northeastern business conditions says that the shoe trade is not yet convinced that the price increase is justified. It is pointed out that the shoe trade is not yet convinced that the price increase is justified. It is pointed out that the shoe trade is not yet convinced that the price increase is justified.

Yesterday in this paragraph a discussion of the automobile business was undertaken. Today it seems only proper to carry on with a few words on the subject. The automobile business is a very important one in the economy. It is pointed out that the shoe trade is not yet convinced that the price increase is justified. It is pointed out that the shoe trade is not yet convinced that the price increase is justified.

Further Increase in Car Prices Predicted

The stock market has rallied. And will probably have a reaction by market. While prices slipped down on Friday, the volume was very heavy. There are all things, especially in the market, are relative to the situation. It is pointed out that the shoe trade is not yet convinced that the price increase is justified. It is pointed out that the shoe trade is not yet convinced that the price increase is justified.

Wall Street Briefs

New York Aug. 31 (AP) — Further advance in automobile prices was looked for by Alfred P. Sloan, Jr., president of General Motors. Sloan said that the company had returned from a European vacation, and "prices had to go up. This probably will have a reaction on the market. The increase in price is justified by the increase in cost of materials. The automobile manufacturer is not alone in this. The increase in price is justified by the increase in cost of materials. The automobile manufacturer is not alone in this.

BACKLOG Aviation Strides Ahead

Orders Aid STEEL OPERATIONS AT 84.1 P. C.

New York, Aug. 31 (AP) — Business observers today saw the unusual vitality of steel production as a reflection of sustained activity in miscellaneous manufacturing enterprises.

The week operations in the steel industry will run at 84.1 per cent of capacity, compared with 83.8 per cent last week and 78.9 per cent in the week of 1936, the American Iron and Steel Institute estimated. The institute said that the current demand from the motor industry has slackened, but volume of production is being maintained by a steady flow of orders for steel, having been 2.3 per cent in the first half of the year.

Food Industries Construction Up

"I've seen enough of that fellow, Von Cramm," Don Budge mourned, as he peeled off soaking garments in the Longwood locker room, the while his loyal friends sat in stunned silence, dejected and dismal at the failure of the great American team of Budge and Gene Mako to successfully defend their National doubles championship.

"I can't say I fancy the Baron a bit," the lanky, red-haired Californian continued, his glowering form dripping rivulets of perspiration. "He knows he's too good for my body, and he just took advantage of it."

"And the same goes for that fellow Hengel. He waited for me to play the last tennis of his career."

"Don't you know, your my very best friend, the Baron outplayed me and proved that index by beating me. We thank you from the bottom of our hearts."

Well, Baron, it's at least nice to know I'll see you back again. Budge returned thus, waving up the hill to his place.

The series of the doubles final was the return in form of the which made the victory so complete.

"I've never seen Hengel play so well," stated Von Cramm after the match. "He was superb. He and his victory the best of his career."

This last day of August finds the New York Giants defending champions, securing first place in the National League race and the cellar tenanted by the Cincinnati Reds, rated by many, including themselves, as a title possibility last April.

At the time of the season's end, the Giants were the only team to have won more than 100 games. They finished with a record of 103 wins and 53 losses.

The Reds, who finished in last place, had a record of 43 wins and 110 losses. They were the only team to have lost more than 100 games.

The Giants' victory was a surprise to many, as they had been considered underdogs throughout the season. Their success was due to a combination of factors, including strong pitching and timely hitting.

The Reds' defeat was a disappointment to many fans, as they had been considered favorites throughout the season. Their failure was due to a combination of factors, including poor pitching and lack of timely hitting.

The game was a classic, with both teams playing to the hilt. The Giants' victory was a testament to their skill and determination.

The Reds' defeat was a lesson in humility. They had been overconfident and had not played to their full potential.

The game was a great example of the beauty of the sport. It was a testament to the skill and determination of the players.

Wonder how that had felt all yesterday when he arrived at work in the office of his co-workers. The lad who furnished the week-end show for the building Saddy Charbonnet, is now a star. A strong in the firm was on her own two wheels as an ex-chef and had been hired to take her place. The lad and she got pretty chummy on Saddy the morning in a private jug to ease him on her first day as a cook with thoughts of parting and all.

Well, the doll felt pretty blue, too, and she had a few sacks at the jug. When she knocked off at 4 P. M., to end her trouble, she had vanished with her and they captured another jug. Then they went to a lot nearby, on the harbor's edge, where they watched the sea waves, pulled on the flask and smoked prettily through the afternoon, without thought they had an audience.

But suddenly had spoken the lady, "Saddy, do you want to be a star?"

Yesterday, when he arrived at work, he was presented with an official score of the knees.

US ON A BUS

In West Gloucester, the motorist registrar, has a golden star, of a sort-in-the-lawyer-dog, for his driver, he couldn't do better than confer on Saddy at Joseph E. Parn. Hub has driver who the column is advice, it has wheeled rickshaws, private cars, buses, trucks and taxicabs for more than a million miles without an accident.

From 1925 to 1937, Saddy has driven taxis in Paris, during the war when he had a license, he paid about a nickel a mile for a taxi license. He came here 15 days ago. He has a few steps at R. R. crossings and keep "wheels" completely in his successful track.

ONCE OVER LIGHTLY

Very quietly indeed Hub Lawyer Charles Dunn (Mass. Gen. Hospital trustee) and Mary Connors of the film that is of R. K. & M. Marie (rd. So. Boston) were wedded Aug. 29th, and they're now honeymooning on Cape Cod. He's a pal of Judge Nagle of So. Boston court (also a recent benefactor) and his dad is Jack Dunn, courthouse assessor.

W. C. M. Marie has a series of child films to end all child films. And it's about time singing and dancing prodigies from all corners of the country be featured. It's a musical, of course.

French Star QUITE AT HOME WHILE AT SEA Radio Stars to Head New Met Stage Bill

Arrives in October

By HARRIET PARSONS

Copyright, 1937, by International News Service

Los Angeles, Aug. 31.—Danielle Darrieux, Universal's French importation, arrives in Hollywood early in October and the studio has given orders not to spare the horses in preparing a starring vehicle for her.

Two different stories are being rushed to completion and Producer Billy De Sylva will select the better of the two for her film debut.

English script, Charles R. Mee, who authored "The 39 Steps," is writing a screen play for "London Bridge Is Falling Down," a French musical comedy, which is being produced by Harry Pines. And Howard J. Green is producing "The Love of Toads," a story about a French girl who has a yarn scheduled with the same title but the two are undoubtedly from out of this comparison.

After several years of playing character roles, specializing in drab little slaves, ladies of easy virtue, and braves, Isabel Dowling gets her first romantic lead in "The Wanderer to Mars."

The Little Jewel has just finished "Love on Toast" in which she makes her first step toward becoming a glamour girl with the aid of a new pageant-coiffure and some very décolleté gowns.

"Public Defender," an original by Anthony Quinn, will be produced by William Wyler, who is trying to get William S. Paley, who was one of the defense counsel in the sensational Dreyfus trial, to act as technical adviser. "Public Defender" will, of course, deal with the attorneys who are appointed by the court to defend a defendant who can't afford to hire counsel or is in any other reason unable to get a lawyer to represent him.

Carl Laemmle, Jr.'s first production under the M-G-M banner will be "Flesh and Blood," an original story by Richard Schickel and Harry Holtzman, which is being prepared with Spencer Tracy in mind. Tracy has a Notre Dame background, a football story. A camera crew will shoot about 100 feet of film to pick up background shots.

Universal is trying to make a deal with Paramount for the rights to the Broadway Kipling classic "The Last Day of Pompeii." I. W. Abel, who is producing the film, wants to exchange Paris in exchange for a Notre Dame background, a football story. A camera crew will shoot about 100 feet of film to pick up background shots.

A fine or two. Emanuel Chou has filed the budget for the Mae Marsh picture, "The Last Day of Pompeii," which is being prepared with Spencer Tracy in mind. Tracy has a Notre Dame background, a football story. A camera crew will shoot about 100 feet of film to pick up background shots.

Alfred Porter, discussing with several Hub interests located his good hand. . . . Forty years, lived for Bobby Brown's film, "Make a Wish," wondered why Director Kurt Neumann didn't ask them if they had experience. . . . But they didn't wonder long. . . . They were cast as actors, and actresses waiting in a theatre mgr's office for jobs—parts most of them have released for years in real life. . . .

Dick Powell At Olympia

"The Singing Marine." Warner Bros. musical extravaganza featuring a host of Hollywood's most popular entertainers headed by Dick Powell, Deane Warner, Hugh Herbert and Alice Johnson, coupled with "Puck A Star," brilliant comedy success, featuring Jackie Haverly, Betty Kelly, Laurel & Hardy.

Among others in the big cast are Steve Gray, sensational character impersonator, who can portray any variety from Lili Chane's "Hunchback of Notre Dame" to the famous parrot William Howard and the trial of his organs for many laughter on the high seas. The story was written from the testimony of survivors which Paramount found in newspaper files of the ship.

The Brighter Side

By DAMON RYUNTON
 Plump ladies make better wives than thin ones.
 We have arrived at this conclusion after considerable study and research.

Plump wives are more agreeable than thin ones up to 150 pounds up to a lady of average height which is around 5 feet 5 inches. The plumper a lady, the better wife she is likely to be, especially as an economic proposition.

A plump wife is 50 per cent less expensive than a thin one. A plump wife is more likely to be a good mother, a good housewife, a good neighbor, a good friend, a good sister, a good wife.

POOR FEEDERS
 A plump wife is almost sure to eat rich foods, which generally are more costly than plain and simple ones. In the course of our study of this question, we interviewed a number of restaurant men, and they told us they do not like to see plump ladies enter their premises unless the men with them are good ones, as the barometer of a plump wife's appetite.

The restaurant men told us that plump ladies are rarely good for anything, and that they are usually a burden to their husbands. They told us that plump ladies are usually a burden to their husbands, and that they are usually a burden to their husbands.

THE THIN WOMEN
 In the course of our study of this question, we interviewed a number of restaurant men, and they told us they do not like to see thin ladies enter their premises unless the men with them are good ones, as the barometer of a thin wife's appetite.
